VETO OF BONUS BILL BY F. D. R. OVERRIDDEN IN HOUSE 324 TO 61

Italy Protests British Accords With Other Powers

DANGER TO EUROPEAN PEACE SEEN

Note To England Says Agreement Already Causing Uneasiness

ROME, Jan. 24.—Italy published a note today addressed to Britain and other sanctionist powers, protesting that Britain's recent mutual accords for military aid in event of an attack in the Mediterranean are "a danger to European peace."

"Such initiatives and such accords of a military character in fields foreign to the Italian-Ethiopian conflict," the note said, "are causing and already have caused an atmosphere of grave uneasiness and therefore a danger to European peace."

The Italian note, four pages long, stated at the outset that Italy must enter formal reservations and protest against Britain's interpretation of Article 16 of the League covenant, "which the British memorandum (to the League council) employs as a basis for accords of a military character concluded between the British government and other governments."

The note said that even before these accords were concluded, "A nation extraneous to the Italian-Ethiopian conflict (evidently referring to Britain) adopted measures of an extraordinary character without notifying the League of Nations and while the League council was still examining the controversy."

The note said Britain's measures were based on "a hypothesis which Italy must consider not only arbitrary but completely non-existent." It then cited Premier Benito Mussolini's speech on the day of Italy's "test mobilization," in which he said Italy would do everything possible to keep a colonial conflict from assuming European proportions.

The note again denied that the League as a body had adopted economic and financial measures against Italy.

"The governments of those League states which are applying the above-mentioned measures against Italy," the note declared, "have instead acted in pursuit of decisions which each took individually."

FEDERAL RESERVE DEPOSITS DECLINE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—Resources and deposits of the member banks of the Federal Reserve banks of San Francisco declined in the week ended Jan. 22 as compared with the preceding week, the bank reported today.

On Jan. 22 resources totalled
$329,258,000 and deposits $316,396,- 000 as compared with $356,542,000 and $334,142,000 respectively. A year ago resources were $335,- 764,000 and deposits $295,013,000.

Bills discounted during the week totalled $35,000 as compared with $28,000 for the preceding week and $35,000 for the same week last year.

The ratio of total reserves to liabilities declined within the week from 62.3 to 69.1 per cent.

CHARGE AL SMITH BROKE PROMISES

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The Anti-Saloon League of New York accused former Governor Alfred E.
Smith of a long list of broken promises today and ridiculed his attack and that of the American Liberty League against the Roosevelt administration.

"The American Liberty league is made up of the same group that made the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment a stench in the nostrils of decent people," State Superintendent Fred A. Victor of the state Anti-Saloon league said in a letter to Smith.
"Every promise made in their former incarnation has been broken. Why should an honest citizen trust them now?"

HEADED FOR GALLOWS

Elton Stone, 30, ex-convict, who confessed the murder of 14-year-old Mary Stammer, Fresno high school girl. Stone was placed behind Folsom prison walls for safekeeping after lynching threats. The county grand jury today started action aimed at sending Stone to the gallows within two weeks.

SUBJECTS OF KING GEORGE PAY TRIBUTE

Body Of Ruler Today Lies In State In Westminster's Great Hall

LONDON, Jan. 24.—King George's people began paying him their final tribute today.

At 8 a.m. a column of mourners eight deep filed into Westminster Hall, split into two columns each four deep, and passed the catafalque on which his body lay.

The first to enter the great hall had waited outside since 6 o'clock last night.

The body will lie in state from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., today, Saturday, Sunday and Monday and will be buried at Windsor Tuesday afternoon.

There were 3000 people in line when the hall was opened this morning. As the day advanced the line stretched even farther westward along the Thames on whose bank the Houses of Parliament, of which Westminster Hall is part, are situated.

Drivers of automobiles and trucks passing a corner of the hall in their course through the arteries of Whitehall and Victoria street slowed to a walking rate and bared their heads.

King George's royal standard drew at half mast from the Victoria tower at the other end of the parliament building from the hall.

Charging that a nationwide conspiracy exists among "waterfront employers, shippers and allied financial interests" to wipe out the Pacific seaboard's maritime unions, the appeal was addressed to Senator Royal S. Copland, chairman of the U. S. Senate commerce committee, in Washington.

In addition to charges contained in the communication, Harry Bridges, San Francisco longshoremen leader and president of the council, said the employers' effort to break the waterfront unions through an impending wholesale lockout also would be aimed at discrediting and injuring the Roosevelt administration through creation of nationwide labor strife on the eve of the presidential campaign.

Copies of the message to Copland were sent to President Roosevelt, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Edward F. McGrady, Assistant Secretary of Labor, U. S.
Senator Hiram Johnson and other high government officials. It was signed by Bridges and Mervyn Bathbone, secretary of the council.

Thomas G. Plant, president of the public works administration.

Complaints Filed

The contractors' complaints came from California, Minnesota, Alaska and Georgia. They said uncertainty of being able to persuade workers to take their private PWA jobs instead of employment on WPA projects hindered their programs.

Works Progress Administrator
Harry L. Hopkins ordered that "workers are to be made available to PWA even though this involves postponing the initiation of WPA projects or curtailing work on active projects by reassigning WPA workers."

He informed all state WPA administrators that "projects of the federal emergency administration of public works have been given definite priority in the assignment of labor."

Los Angeles, Jan. 24.—Fate of James A. Timony and 13 co-defendants charged with presenting an indecent performance was to be decided today on the basis of a courtroom presentation of "Ladies by Request," a bedroom farce.

All except one member of the jury of 11 women and one man seemed to enjoy Timony's production, staged for their benefit in municipal Judge Leo Agger's court.

The one woman juror sat through the performance grimly with never a smile crossing her face.

"Ladies by Request" played to a capacity audience as other judges and court attaches rushed through their schedule and adjourned to witness the performance, done without costumes and with only a bed for a "prop."

SEN. BORAH ATTACKS
BUSINESS THUGGERY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Sen.
William E. Borah, potential Republican presidential nominee, warned today that earnings must be redistributed to avoid a fight for the existence of American capitalism against state socialism or communism. He said the nation must destroy "business thuggery."

Borah expressed these opinions in an article prepared for publication in Collier's. He declared the farm problem should be met by a redistribution of wealth that will create an American market for agriculture. He lashed at "capitalistic monopoly" and described the Townsend Old Age Pension plan as "the most extraordinary social and political movement in recent years."

Deputy Sheriff James Workman has been assigned by Jackson to commence, early next week, the task of contacting and enrolling the desired men and facilities, which

Father Of Slain Girl Is First Witness Called
By Grand Jurors

FRESNO, Cal., Jan. 24.—First of a series of short, quick steps which authorities anticipate will carry Elton M. Stone, stolid 31-year-old ex-convict, to the gallows platform for the murder of Mary Stammer, 14, golden-haired school girl, was taken here today.

Exactly two months since finding of the girl's partially nude body at the family home here, the Fresno county grand jury convened for the purpose of returning an indictment against her confessed murderer.

The grand jury session was looked upon only as a matter of routine and it was expected a true bill would be handed up following brief testimony by a small group of witnesses.

Walter H. Stammer, Fresno corporation attorney and father of 31-year-old Mary Stammer, slain last Nov. 24, appeared as the first witness. He remained in the jury room approximately 10 minutes.

ORANGE COUNTY
RANCH SALE BY FITTS IS AIRED

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24.—An analysis of Buron Fitts' financial condition at the time he assortedly purloined himself was to be brought before a jury today as part of Los Angeles county's dis-

Special Prosecutor Clyde C.
Shoemaker said he would attempt to prove Fitts was "financially embarrassed" despite his salary of $12,000 a year.

The district attorney's financial condition would be linked with an Orange county ranch deal, Shoemaker said, in an attempt to prove Fitts needed money.

The ranch was purchased from Mrs. Bertha Gregory, the district attorney's sister, by Lucien Wheeler, private investigator for John P. Mills, wealthy realtor who was facing charges in connection with a Hollywood "love mart" at the time.

Fitts was indicted for testifying before the 1931 county grand jury that he had no connection with the ranch deal. Subsequent investigation disclosed he had deposited a deed to the ranch as security for a loan.

SHERIFF MOVES TO ORGANIZE
EMERGENCY GROUP TO HANDLE
MAJOR DISASTERS IN COUNTY

ORGANIZATION of Orange county's entire resources in manpower, transportation, communications, and other utility, into a vast emergency weapon for meeting and handling major disasters, will be started next week by Sheriff Logan Jackson, he announced today.

Outlining his plan, he said it will include cars, trucks, tractors, horse and wagon equipment, and probably aircraft. Workman is himself an aviator.

The American Legion posts of Orange county will form the nucleus of an expanded organization of emergency man-power, said Sheriff Jackson. The Legion already is organized into a reserve that can supply the sheriff with 400 men on an hour's notice. Expansion of this reserve corps into every section of the county will be one of the first tasks.

"BANK DAYS"
TO BE ENDED
BY MARKETS

MERCHANTS AT MEETING TO-DAY TENTATIVELY AGREE TO HALT PRACTICE

FOLLOWING a meeting of representatives of three markets in Santa Ana which have been staging "Bank Day" events with City Attorney L. W. Blodgett, it appeared likely today that the markets will stage one more
"Bank Day" not later than Wednesday next week.

Blodgett indicated today that merchants do not wish the "Bank Night" events staged at local theaters to be affected by the tentative agreement made this morning, which was to the effect that the markets could stage one more
"Bank Day" not later than Wednesday next week and probably on Tuesday or Wednesday.

If the agreement reached at this morning's conference stands, it will not be necessary to adopt the city ordinance prohibiting drawings for persons present" which was given first reading by the city council last Monday night, Blodgett said today.

The only thing that remains to be done before the agreement is completed is for the Grand Central Market to contact independent merchants in the market to see if they wish to concur in the agreement, Blodgett said. Other markets represented at the conference this morning were the Empire Market and Alpha Bet Market.

The ordinance was prepared and submitted by City Attorney Blodgett, who declared the submission was "upon the recommendation of the police department."

stitutional amendment.

REVISE SUBSTITUTE
FOR DEAD AAA BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The department of agriculture hastily revised the Bankhead-Jones substitute AAA bill today to bring it within the supreme court's interpretation of the constitution and provide for a permanent program.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace said he hoped to have the revised draft ready for submission late today to the senate agriculture sub-committee, which returned the original bill to him late yesterday for rewriting.

utes. He refused to make any comment as he left the court house.

Sheriff Called

Sheriff George Overholt was called as the next witness before the jury. The sheriff's stay was slightly longer than that of Stammer. He also refused to make a statement when he emerged.

The jury then called in rapid succession a number of the officers who participated in the murder investigation. Among them were Detective G. J. Mohler, Deputy Sheriff Wallace Moore and Owen Kessel, of the state bureau of criminal identification.

Two ambulance drivers who took the slain girl's body from the Stammer home to Burnett Sanitarium the night of the murder, also appeared briefly before the jury.

Stone, held in an isolated cell at Folsom prison, where he will be hanged if convicted of the murder, already has indicated to officers he would plead guilty.

Officials declared a first degree murder indictment by the grand jury was a "foregone conclusion" and that the action was taken only to obviate Stone being brought here for preliminary hearing.

Corridors Jammed

As the jurors convened it became apparent there was a strong under-current of feeling against Stone among citizens despite statements by authorities that "there will be no trouble."

Corridors adjoining the court room overflowed with groups of low-talking spectators until police officers were ordered to keep out everyone not on official business.

Sheriff George Overholt scoffed when told of rumors that a hastily formed band of vigilantes would attempt to take summary action against the confessed slayer.

"I don't believe there is any possibility that we will have trouble protecting Stone when he is brought here," Overholt said.

"I do not think it even will be necessary for me to detail a special guard for him. He can be brought to trial just like any other prisoner."

The sheriff admitted there was a possibility mob action might have been taken if Stone's capture had come right after discovery of the crime.

"But people have cooled down now to more sensible thought and know that justice must be done according to the laws of the state," he said.

A carpet was stretched from the public entrance off old palace yard to the hall.

The mourners, including some children, whispered as they approached but fell silent as they reached the threshold.

At the top of the entrance steps, they saw an awesome spectacle. The vast hall, with dim burning lights, seemed to burst into the view. Its expanse was broken only by tiny splash of color represented by the late king's catalogue in the center. People caught their breath as they saw it, startled by its beauty.

Matting, then gray carpet, was laid over the stone floor, and there was no sound of footfalls.

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 24.—Allen Foster, Birmingham, Ala., Negro, was executed for criminal assault today in North Carolina's new lethal gas chamber.

He was the first man thus to die in this state.

"I wonder if dat gassin' will work all right," the doomed man said before entering the chamber.

"Good-bye," the 20-year-old Negro could be heard calling through the glass panels of the death chamber.

SAME ACTION EXPECTED IN UPPER HOUSE

that funds were not provided to pay for the bonus.

Recently the apparently certain enactment of the bonus measure has added to speculation on the necessity of taxes to meet such unscheduled government obligations.

Wastes No Time

The house wasted little time in deciding upon an immediate vote. Rep. Thomas Blanton, D., Tex., drew laughter when he said the house shouldn't put off the vote "because if we did hundreds of veterans organization posts would wire us and they ought to save their money."

Chairman Pat Harrison of the senate finance committee, who sponsored the bonus bill in the senate, confirmed the general opinion that the senate would concur with the house.

"It is my opinion that the veto will not be sustained. I shall vote to override the veto," he said.

Last year the senate upheld the Patman bill veto 40 to 54.

The president's message read as follows:

President's Message

"I return herewith, without my approval, H. R. Bill 9870, entitled 'An Act to Provide for the Immediate Payment of World War Adjusted Service Certificates, for the Cancellation of Unpaid Interest Accrued on Loans Secured By Such Certificates, and for Other Purposes.'

"On May 22, 1935, in disapproving a bill to pay the bonus in full immediately instead of in 1945, I gave in person to a joint session of the congress complete and explicit reasons for my actions.

"The bill I now return differs from last year's bill in only two important respects: First, it eliminates the issuance of unsecured paper currency to make the payments required and substitutes interest bearing bonds, which, however, may be converted into cash for face value at any time; second, it adds $263,000,000 to the total payments by forgiving interest after October 1, 1931, on amounts borrowed.

Reasons Unchanged

"In all respects, the circumstances, arguments and facts remain essentially the same as those fully covered and explained by me only eight months ago.

"I respectfully refer the members of the Senate and of the House of Representatives to very word of what I said then.

"My convictions are as compelling today as they were then. Therefore, I cannot change them."

The speed of the veto message at this time came as a distinct surprise. Observers had felt that Mr. Roosevelt had not even started writing, believing that he was planning to do so in the quiet of his study tomorrow evening.

In submitting the message, in his own handwriting, the President reviled a custom that passed out of usage in the "gay nineties." In those days Rudolph Forster, chief White House clerk, often sat up all night writing out messages in long-hand as required by law.

Forster, who has been at the White House for more than 40 years, doesn't recall a message in the President's own script going up before. Usually they were written by the clerk.

The Senate is scheduled to act on the bonus veto Monday and is expected to override the veto making the measure a law.

The Waterfront Employers' association, denied new charges, declaring that no lockout is contemplated, but adding that "employers must insist that all maritime and longshore unions scrupulously observe their contracts with us if we are to continue relations with them."

"Employers would welcome a complete and thorough government investigation of the Pacific coast maritime labor situation," Plant said.

ing concerns will be asked to list and pledge available rolling stock and crews for emergency action. Telephone and telegraph companies will be enrolled in the expansion of present communications facilities, which center about the county police radio, already a powerful instrument for mobilizing and directing manpower. A two-way radio system will likely be one of the supplements to present facilities, said the sheriff.

Besides the telephone and telegraph companies, however, it is planned to enlist other public utility concerns in the reserve army. Ranchers will be asked to supply their livestock and tractors for whatever purpose may be found for them.

An air force of private fliers is one of the important wings of the reserve organization which Jackson hopes will materialize. Los Angeles county has such an air squadron, which has proved immensely valuable in various ways, according to Jackson.

The sheriff pointed out that the plans for establishing emergency first aid stations at various points in the county, would fit well with his own plan for an emergency corps. Harry Edwards, of the veteran's welfare bureau, has charge of plans for establishing the first aid stations in southern Orange county, while a similar move is afoot in northern Orange county.

BYRD TO GIVE TWO LECTURES ON SATURDAYShip That Rescued Ellsworth and Aid from Icy Fate

Penetrating the ice floes that hem Little America in the Antarctic, the British royal research ship Discovery II, pictured at London as it was being provisioned, flashed to the world the news that the two-month search for Lincoln Ellsworth and his pilot, Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, had ended happily. The two explorers were found safe and in good health, encamped on the ice. Missing since November 28, they were grounded when their plane ran out of gas twenty miles from their goal.

PRODUCTION CREDIT GROUP WILL CONVENEPETERKIN WILL HANDLE TRUCK REGISTRATION

Two new directors, to succeed V. C. Hell and Walter J. Pollard, will be elected tomorrow at the annual meeting of the Orange County Production Credit Association. The new directors will be elected to serve terms of three years each, according to W. D. Miller, secretary of the association.

The meeting will start at 10 a. m. in the Farm Bureau assembly hall 422 North Main street with John W. Crill, president, presiding as chairman. Crill will submit his annual report and will be followed by Miller who will read a financial report.

In his report Miller will reveal that during the past year business transacted by the association totalled $594,000 and that there was a net operating gain of $721 above expenses.

T. P. Coast, president of the Production Credit Corporation, of Berkeley will be the principal speaker during the session and will be accompanied to Santa Ana by officials of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Oakland and J. M. Eakins, field representative of the Production Credit Corporation.

Retiring officers this year are President Crill, Vice President Hell and Pollard. Crill will remain on the board as will J. J. Denni, Cypress, and Stanley Chapman of Fullerton.

tention to help rather than punish.

"For the remainder of the license renewal period, I suggest that truckmen get in touch with Officer Peterkin, as I have learned of several instances where mistakes have been made in registering. The fee is determined by unladen weight, and the new code made this rather complicated. We know of some cases where false unladen weights have been registered deliberately, and others where the mistake was honest.

"After the renewal period, checks will be made on the road, and 100 per cent penalties will be in order. The legislature has made this mandatory, and the patrol must collect, whether or not it was an honest mistake. If in doubt, truckmen should have our commercial officer confer with them, so that the mistake can be remedied and the penalty avoided."

Assignment of Officer George Peterkin to the supervision of commercial vehicle regulation in Orange county, by Chief E. Raymond Cato, of the California Highway Patrol, was announced today by Captain Henry C. Meehan, of the Orange county squad.

Peterkin will continue also in his capacity as school safety officer, both as to the educational phases and the checking of busses being assigned help when necessary.

He has just returned from Sacramento, where he was called to receive special instruction in his new duties with commercial vehicles.

In announcing Peterkin's assignment, Captain Meehan also stated that the policy of his department will be to "work with the truck men" and lend all assistance possible in an advisory capacity, to familiarize them with regulations and promote harmonious compliance with the law.

"It will not be our intention to take advantage of technicalities," he said, "but rather to have a representative who can meet with the truck men who show a willingness to cooperate, and advise them of the code requirements.

"Of course, arrests must follow flagrant violations or gross negligence, but where an honest mistake has been made, it is our in-

HOME OWNED MERCHANTS TO MEET TONIGHT

Two outstanding speakers are on the program for tonight at the monthly meeting of the Orange County Home Owned Business Association, according to Walter Vandermast, president of the organization. The Association will meet at 7:30 o'clock in the council chambers at the city hall.

The speakers were obtained through the efforts of T. E. Bolte, secretary of the Orange County group, who is in Oakland attending the state convention of the organization. Vandermast received a telegram from Bolte announcing that Russell Bjorn, an officer of the state association, and Harry Smith, state director from Santa Barbara will be here to meet with the local members and speak on the purposes and accomplishments of the organization.

Vandermast said today that all independent businessmen in the county and their employees, regardless of whether they are members of the association, are invited to attend this meeting.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR REDUCTION OF TAX BURDEN

Tentative plans for forming a state-wide program to reduce cost of government and taxation were discussed at a meeting of the California State Chamber of Commerce in Los Angeles yesterday, attended by four men from Orange county.

Tom R. Talbert, Huntington Beach, president of the Orange County Tax Council; George A. Raymer, secretary-statistician of the council; Stanley Chapman and Fred Kraus, both of Fullerton, attended the sessions held in the Biltmore hotel.

Discussing the meeting today, Raymer said that while the advisability of calling a state constitutional convention was discussed, it was felt generally that such a move might not be wise at this time because liberal political forces might gain control of the convention.

Raymer said that it was

Flood Waters Inundate Northern California Valleys

Occupants of "jungletowns" in lowlands of the Sacramento River Valley in Northern California fled to safety when the river rose and flooded vast areas of river bottom-land. Many of the paper and wooden shacks were crushed or swept away by the swollen Sacramento River, although actual damage was counted as slight.

brought out at the meeting that 80 per cent of the state's costs are in fixed charges, 68 per cent of which goes to schools. He said it was stated that calling a constitutional convention probably would be the only means of reducing these fixed expenditures, as they are written into the constitution.

Conference Program

Raymer said today that the program to be formulated will be presented at the meeting called by Governor Merriam to be held February 3 in Sacramento. A group of Orange county men, including R. C. Holles, J. P. Baumgartner, and Secretary Howard L. Wood of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, and Supervisor W. C. Jerome, representing the Southern California Economic Council, will attend the Sacramento meeting. The governor called the meeting for a discussion of financial problems facing the state.

There was a general feeling at the meeting yesterday, Raymer said, that there is a serious need now for a definite program for reducing taxation throughout the state. The feeling was, he said, that taxes should not amount to more than the ability of the average taxpayer to pay.

Another meeting will be held about three weeks when the various county representatives will present statistics regarding bonded indebtedness and costs of government in their respective counties. Raymer already has this information on Orange county, obtained in the SERA survey sponsored by the League of Orange County Municipalities.

The need for uniform accounting throughout the state was stressed at the meeting yesterday, and it was brought out that economy is difficult to achieve without accurate and complete knowledge about all governmental costs.

Centralized Control

Centralized control of expenditures in the state, counties and cities was suggested, the feeling being that if one person was responsible for governmental expenditures blame for excess expenditures could be easily placed where it belongs, Raymer said.

Consolidation of branches of government and consolidation of some counties of the state was suggested as a means of bringing about lowering of governmental costs. It was felt that highway departments in counties could be combined with engineering departments and that gasoline tax money could be used exclusively on all road work in a centralized program, with counties still directing the work within the counties, to advantage, he declared.

The feeling was expressed yesterday that the law limiting increase in expenditures of political subdivisions to five per cent a year is being side-stepped, Raymer said, and an analysis of the situation will be made.

BILL DUNSTON GETS STUDENT POST AT J. C.

Bill Dunston was yesterday elected vice president of the Santa Ana Junior college student body, winning victory by a small margin over Harris Warren. The two men won in the primary election held last week over Miss Mary Wallace, the only other open candidate.

Dunston, a member of the Bachelor's service club, was leading by a small majority over Warren in the primaries, completing the lead in the finals, Miss Louise Sexton, secretary of the student body, stated. Warren is president of Los Gachos service club, and Miss Wallace is president of Las Meninas service club.

Dunston will serve with the newly elected cabinet, headed by Al Markel as president; Miss Frances Was, secretary; and John Haskell, treasurer. Other commissioners of the cabinet will be appointed shortly according to President Markel. These include a social commissioner, commissioner of publications, and the men's and women's athletic commissioners.

The newly elected officers will be installed at a regular assembly of the student body to be held in the near future. The outgoing cabinet is composed of Charles Roemer, president; Walt Bandick, vice president; Miss Louise Sexton, secretary, and Charles McWaters, treasurer.

Police Recover Stolen Bicycle

H. R. Brinkerhoff, 310 East Third, was soon to be in repossession of his $30 bicycle, stolen last month from the Robert Gerwing bicycle shop, as Detective Lieutenant Charles Wolford reported today the conclusion of the theft case. Officers W. E. B. Sherwood and Ralph Pantuso found the bicycle frame at Maple and Amburst several weeks ago; later, two Delhi Mexican boys, arrested by Officers Charles Neer and Pantuso in a bicycle theft cleanup which netted six or eight boys, confessed to taking the Brinkerhoff bicycle from the rear of the Gerwing shop, informing officers where the remainder of the bicycle could be found. Today Gerwing was reassembling the bicycle for Brinkerhoff.

Drunk Arrests Show Increase

Figures compiled today by Desk Sergeant J. F. McWilliams of city police show that January, 1935, to the 23rd, exceeded January, 1936, for the same period, in number of drunk arrests, by 21. In 1935, 48 drunks were arrested as compared with 27 this year.

CLUB ENTERTAINED

LA HABRA, Jan. 24.—Mrs. H. T. Shannon entertained the members of the Wednesday Morning Study club at her home on East Whittier boulevard. Mrs. Thomas Mahoney was leader and her topic was "India." Mrs. Mahoney's talk was in keeping with the annual theme selected this year, "Great Britain and Her Subjects." Current events were led by Mrs. Henri Clayton.

'Home Fire' Burns On in Tornado

Fire still smoldered in the chimney of E. Freeman's house at Pyffe, Ala., after a tornado had moved the dwelling 15 feet and left it sagging, but still upright, as shown here. The midwinter twister, accompanied by bitter cold, killed four in Alabama and 13 in the vicinity of the Georgia-Alabama-Florida state lines, and caused heavy property damage.

CIVIL SERVICE SUBJECT FOR WOMEN VOTERS

Observing National Personnel Day, as a part of the national organization's two-year campaign for the extension of civil service, the Santa Ana League of Women Voters will meet Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. in the Y. M. C. A.

Valean McCoy, member of the high school faculty, will be the speaker and will talk on "Trained Personnel for Public Service." It will be pointed out that civil service is the only method of eliminating the "spoils system" from public office. In his talk McCoy will show that, while civil service is not entirely free from error, these errors can be corrected.

Mrs. Ora K. Heine, president of the Santa Ana League, also announced that as a part of the national observance of the day there will be a nation-wide radio program broadcast at 7:30 p. m. with outstanding speakers discussing the subject. Included among the speakers will be Governor Fitzgerald of Michigan; Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper, and Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia of New York City.

Arm Broken As Woman Struck by Automobile Door

Mrs. Jenny Beckman, 72, of Tustin was slowly improving today from an automobile accident Wednesday afternoon in which she suffered a broken arm as an open car door struck her to the ground. Mrs. Beckman was given medical treatment and taken home.

Mrs. Beckman had been riding with E. E. Smith, 69, Box 425, Tustin, and had just alighted from the car when the accident occurred. According to Smith's report to police, the door failed to shut properly and swung open as he started to drive away, striking Mrs. Beckman. The accident occurred at Fourth and Bush streets.

Regulations governing the reporting of "information at the source," under the California Personal Income Tax act of 1935, should not be confused with personal income tax reports by individuals, according to a communication just received by County Auditor W. T. Lambert from Charles J. McGolan, state franchise tax commissioner in Sacramento.

Present reports relating to the "information at the source" provision of section 23a, of the act, said McGolan, has tended to confuse the public mind with the idea that this referred to personal income reports, whereas it covers employers or "sources" of income. Generally speaking, said McGolan, the act requires all corporations organized under the laws of California, or doing business in the state, which paid $300 or more dividends during 1935 to an individual, fiduciary or member of a partnership, to so report.

The section also required that every individual, partnership, corporation, etc., including officers and employees of the state, or any of its political subdivisions, shall report with respect to salaries, interest, rents, royalties, and other fixed or determinable income paid or distributed, totalling $1000 or more, to a fiduciary, partnership or single person, or $2500 to a married person.

Forms for the reports may be obtained from the Franchise Tax Commission in Sacramento, San Francisco or Los Angeles, these forms being practically the same as the federal forms, it was stated.

The reports must be filed with the Franchise Tax Commission in Sacramento on or before February 15.

Police department records reveal today that 77 automobile owners whose cars were parked all night during the past three nights, soon will present tickets left on their cars, to Judge Mitchell. The fine for all-night parking usually is $1. Wednesday morning 38 "all-night" cars were tagged; Thursday morning 3, and this morning, 31, records show.

TUSTIN, Jan. 24.—Approximately 250 Tustin Knights of Pythias are expected to attend the annual birthday anniversary turkey dinner and program of the lodge to be held at 6:30 p. m. January 28 in the Knights of Pythias hall.

Plans for the event were completed at the regular meeting of the Knights held Tuesday night, with Floyd Hawkins, commander, presiding. Ed Kiser is in charge of arrangements for the dinner and entertainment.

Coffee cakes and coffee were served by H. H. Hannaford and his committee to the 40 members present.

Albert A. Allen, 34, of 617 East Pine, Santa Ana, was in county jail today on a drunk driving charge placed against him late yesterday afternoon following an automobile accident at First and Ross. Allen and his wife were slightly injured in the mishap.

Allen's car collided with one driven by Helen M. Burns, 25, of 1029 West Camille. She was not injured. A doctor's examination of Allen showed him to be "markedly intoxicated" at time of accident.

— News Behind the News —

BY PAUL MALLON

Copyright, 1936, by Paul Mallon

FIRE

BOSTON, Jan. 24.—A rumor has swept this section that Al Smith will case his punches in his Liberty League speech Saturday night. It seems to be a top tip in upper New York state and Massachusetts.

One of Al's closest friends here says, off the record:

"Advance publicity on the speech has been overplayed. It cannot possibly live up to expectations."

But Al has pulled very few punches in his life.

"His speech will burn his Roosevelt bridges behind him—with gasoline."

PLAYING

They say that Democratic Boss Curley was speaking more or less humorously when he hinted himself as a candidate for the senate next year against Senator Coolidge. He will probably end up by running for governor, instead.

Curley is playing a wise game. He lets his associates talk ardently against the New Deal, but he personally always speaks well of President Roosevelt.

Thus, Mr. Curley is very likely to be found on top of the heap, no matter who winds up on the bottom.

RETICENCE

Retiring Assistant Treasury Secretary Coolidge is just as talkative as a certain former president by the same name. One of his Boston banking associates had dinner with him a few nights before his resignation and heard nothing about it. Not only that, but Mr. Coolidge also neglected to offer any vehement criticism of the New Deal.

Those who are closest to him in the Washington stories are correct. It was not a specific incident which caused his resignation, but an accumulation of spending policies with which he could not go along.

Incidentally, the resignation was presented long before it was announced. He let Mr. Roosevelt hold it up and fix the time.

POPULARITY TRENDS

Whether Al Smith has lost weight in his old New England stronghold is a matter of dispute among the authoritative. Some say his row with Father Coughlin last year has hurt him. It is generally agreed that Coughlin has fallen off in these parts, but probably not as much as in the rest of the country.

Townsendites are on the up. The movement is comparatively new in these regions and still has the advantage of fresh appeal. Such an educational leader as the assistant superintendent of schools in Boston (Dr. Frederick Gillis) came out for the plan a few days ago, although he doubted its "feasibility"—his word—at the present time.

The fact seems to be that the Townsendites will be a surging political influence in the developing presidential campaign, but not a dominant one.

FRANKFURTER

The most thoroughly retired of all retiring Bostonians is probably the most influential one—Prof. Frankfurter. His advisory relationship with the President is confidential, and he lives his life accordingly.

He handles his classes daily at the Harvard University Law school, slips off to Washington occasionally, getting in and out of the White House without publicity. There are also telephones available to be used. With it all, he lives in the cloistered seclusion of the confidences of his clique of friends here, in New York and Washington, all the young lawyers he has helped along.

He does not talk freely with newsmen, even to two of his good friends on Boston papers. Concerning political-economic subjects, he lets his books speak for him, and they speak loudly enough. He is highly respected locally, even by his political adversaries.

No national political character has been so elusive since Col. House functioned in a somewhat similar, but more official, way for Woodrow Wilson.

RECOUNT

The New Dealers wrote New England off as a total loss last November. The Literary Digest poll showed roughly 70 per cent of this populous section against. Even so, this does not close the book as far as next November's personalities are concerned. A recount will be necessary before then, after such unknown factors as Curley, Al Smith and the Republican candidate are developed more clearly.

WASHINGTON

By Ray Tucker

EFFECTIVES

The liberal doses of soothing syrup which Dan Roper has fed to his Business Advisory committee seem to guarantee less bickering between this group and the White House. The Commerce Secretary has again justified FDR's reliance on him as No. 1 Fixer at Washington.

New blood has been infused and special care was taken to insure that the substitutes were less excitable, less publicly-minded, than some of their predecessors. Several members suspected of tipping off the press to anti-administration resolutions were quietly dropped.

The executive committee is dominated by men who prefer cooperation to carpings. But Mr. Roper's fine hand shows most astutely in the "agenda" he persuaded them to adopt for 1936.

Although he proposed it some weeks ago, nobody has leaked. It stipulates that the committee will avoid controversial matters such as new deal legislation and policies. It won't march to the White House in mass protest, as it did last year. It will limit its curiosity to a field where there is little room for sharp differences of political opinion—trade development, merchant marine, aviation, automobile safety campaigns, railroads, etc.

FEUD

The New York reunion of the Hyde Park and Oyster Bay Roosevelts didn't promote peace in the family.

Alice and Teddy resented the suggestions of the President and Mayor LaGuardia that their father would bless the new philosophy if he were still alive. Teddy grumbled that "most of them now praising him (T. R.) were on the other side during his fights." Teddy showed how he felt when he arose to speak. He failed to include "Mister President" in his opening salutation. Then he spoke with his back toward the nation's head man. A deep flush suffused the presidential countenance.

A secret feud has existed between the families for years—social as well as political. It began long before T. R. laid the family's claim to fame. As landed proprietors, the president's family looked down on the Oyster Bay branch, who made their money in trade. Political warfare has sharpened the feelings all around. Friends say FDR's deepest ambition is to leave a more permanent imprint on history than T. R. did.

IRKSOME

The two political generalissimos—Jim Farley and Henry Fletcher—have teamed up in a quiet move to keep the 1936 campaign free of the back-stage whispers which have marked so many presidential contests in recent years.

Chairman Fletcher acted immediately when he learned that the "Republican National Council" of New York was distributing envelope stickers defaming President and Mrs. Roosevelt. He asked New York National Committeeman Charles D. Hilles to investigate the sponsors. Mr. Hilles reported that none of the names listed on the council's literature was known to responsible Republicans. They didn't have bona fide addresses or telephone listings.

Then Reps. Bolton and Bacon of the G.O.P. Congressional committee disavowed the "council." Two days later Mr. Farley's Solicitor General ruled that three of the stickers were clearly objectionable to the "Republican National Council." What irks Mr. Fletcher is that a certain press association first attributed distribution of the stickers to the "Republican National Committee."

PENSIONS

If World War veterans launch a drive for pensions-for-all when and if the bonus is paid they will be begging in astronomical figures—from $3,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000.

Veterans' administration mathematicians' studies reveal that peak demands are always voiced in times of depression, that peak costs come under Democratic presidents—Monroe, Jackson, Cleveland, Wilson and perhaps FDR. They attribute the phenomenon to the fact that depression always follows a war, and Democratic presidents are usually elected in periods of depression.

They also learn that the veterans have cut down the waiting time for pensions war by war. The years which elapsed between the war's ending and the grant of general pensions for the various conflicts follow: Revolutionary, 35; War of 1812, 59; Civil war, 25; Spanish-American, 21; World war—bonus payment in 1926, or 18 years. If the bonus could be staved off till 1945, it is figured the move for further liberalization would not begin until 1950. Payment now may mean the movement for permanent monthly allowances will start ten years earlier.

FRIENDS

When the supreme court convened in full session to receive Richard Bruno Hauptmann's appeal it made history. Such petitions have always been presented to the individual justice who supervises the judicial district where the case originates, and he lays it before his associates.

The inside reason for the innovation lies in the sensibilities of two old friends—Justice Roberts, who has charge of the New Jersey district, and Neil Burkinshaw, Washington lawyer chosen to advise on federal procedure. Mr. Burkinshaw was Mr. Roberts' assistant during the latter's prosecution of Doheny and Sinclair in the oil trials. They have remained good friends.

So Mr. Burkinshaw contrived to ascertain whether Justice Roberts preferred to pass on the plea himself or to let it be presented to the full court. Word came back that all nine men would sit to consider Hauptman's last judicial move in his fight to escape the electric chair.

NOTES

Senators on both sides agree that a bonus veto would be overridden this time . . . With everybody present, the veto would have to hold 38 votes to win—and only 17 were recorded against the bonus . . . Nye and his munitions colleagues deny that they broke confidential seals on state department papers . . . Vandenberg skillfully sidestepped the mess into which his munitions colleagues plunged.

'Big Salary Book' Most Widely Read in Capital

Far more popular than any "best seller" is this book, which can't be bought at any price and is the most eagerly read volume in Washington, this "bungle" being only one of scores seen every day over its pages. There is only one copy of this book and it lists every corporation employee whose salary is $16,000 a year or more. Stock list salesmen are especially interested in its contents. The book cannot be removed from the House Ways and Means Committee hearing room and no photostatic copies can be made from it.

YORBA LINDA LOTS LEASED AS SITE FOR STATE FIRE STATION

YORBA LINDA, Jan. 24.—Possibility that the Northern Orange county fire fighting headquarters will be located in Yorba Linda was revealed this week when the school board members voted to lease the six lots where the grammar school formerly was located, to the state division of forestry for that purpose.

The lots are grouped together and are across from the Methodist and Friends churches.

The terms of the lease include a provision that the state buildings be grouped on one corner and the balance of the site maintained as a park by the state.

According to Joe Scherman, head of the division of forestry at Orange, definite acceptance of the site will be known by the middle of February, and if the proposal of the school board is accepted, buildings and improvements under a WPA project would total about $6000.

A station for northern Orange county would house about 10 men, and would serve the district for all territory in and north of the Santa Ana canyon.

THRILLING TALES OF TRACK: VICTORIAN'S NOSE-WIN IN PREAKNESS DUE TO WORKMAN

Sports—Thrilling Tales—by Ed. (This is the fourth of a series of six articles on famous rides by famous riders—Sport editor's note.)

BY MAX RIDDLE
(NEA Service Turf Writer)

Raymond (Sonny) Workman says that he obtained his biggest thrill out of riding Victorian to a nose victory over Toro in the historic Preakness at Pimlico in 1928.

Victorian had been a good juvenile, albeit not a great one. He was an untried 3-year-old on Preakness Day. Workman knew only that the son of Broomstick II tended to shorten stride after a mile or a mile and an eighth and that he had the speed to lead the pack.

That was about the only way the Harry Payne Whitney entrant cared to run, as a matter of fact.

Workman's problem, then, was to make a front runner, and one that was essentially a sprinter, on top and yet save him for a challenge.

He stormed out of the pack like a whirlwind and before Workman could rouse the full brother of Whiskery, Toro was a length in front. There was only an eighth to go and everyone, including Ambrose on Toro, believed that thoroughbred was a certain and easy winner.

Unexpectedly, as far as Workman was concerned, Toro was the horse that accepted Victorian's challenge.

He stormed out of the pack like a whirlwind and before Workman could rouse the full brother of Whiskery, Toro was a length in front. There was only an eighth to go and everyone, including Ambrose on Toro, believed that thoroughbred was a certain and easy winner.

Toro was tiring. Ambrose, knowing Victorian, had a right to believe Victorian was dead on his feet.

But Workman, who never gives up, was riding him now with heel and hand. He closed that length gap before Ambrose could collect Toro. Victorian got his nose.

maintain prices at present levels from now through the peak month of March, and if possible, to secure as much in total returns for this year's crop as was received for the record-sized crop of 1935.

The present year's production is expected to be approximately half of that of 1935. Although this year's production is twice as large as that of any other year up to 1935, returns from the second marketing pool averaged the highest since September of 1932.

The industry's growth has been due largely to the greatly increased knowledge and demand brought about for the fruit by the growers' marketing cooperative, through its use of advertising and expanding of distribution, it was announced.

Founded January 21, 1924, the Calavo Growers of California has increased its tonnages handled from 124,000 pounds during the first year to 12,300,000 pounds for 1935.

Growers participating in this program have increased from 100 in 1924 to 1800 commercial producers today, it was stated.

Carl V. Newman of Tustin, who is well known in Santa Ana, has been elected 1936 president of the Calavo Growers of California. It was announced today following the growers' annual meeting held in Los Angeles. Newman has been elected president of the group each year since 1925.

Election of Newman as a district director also was confirmed at the annual meeting. R. H. Marsh, of La Habra, was elected a district director. Edwin G. Hart, of La Jolla Heights, was named director-at-large.

Objectives announced for the 1936 season of marketing were:

HOLLYWOOD HAPPENINGS By PAUL HARRISON, Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 24. — Most good actors and actresses have big heads. Literally large, not inflated with ego.

Elmer Fryer says so. Elmer is the portrait specialist at Warner's. He has been posing hundreds of stars for 10 years. Looking over his large gallery to favorite likenesses he got to thinking about the actual sizes of heads the other day, and decided that a small head and small features are a great handicap to any performer.

"Look at Clark Gable's ears, Beery's nose, Cantor's eyes, Joe E. Brown's mouth. Look at Joan Crawford's mouth. Nearly all stars have generous features and heads larger than average. If they didn't, they'd look prissy in a photograph."

Consider, too, the not-too-handsome features of some of the outstanding celluloid successes. Looks as though the time is nearing when a few pronounced character lines will be worth a thousand dimples.

There are W. C. Fields, Jimmy Durante, Edna May Oliver, Charles Chaplin, Ruggles and Butterworth, the aforementioned Messrs. Brown and Beery, the Brothers Marx, and Victor McLaglen.

Any one of these could win an Olympic pole-vault event as easily as a beauty contest. Yet they seem to be doing all right.

Art for Screen's Sake
When your attention wandered from the action of a dull movie, you might have got to wondering about the pictures hung against the walls of film sets. There are reasons why these pictures can't be portraits of real people or copies of old masters.

If film players or any other celebrities were used as models for paintings they would be recognized by lots of customers and would be come distracting factors in the finished films.

Safe Adventure
The Los Angeles river, skirting Hollywood on the north, disgraces its locale by being neither stupendous nor gigantic. In fact, it is notable mainly for the small amount of water it generally contains. But because it is more of a swamp than a river, it has its days of glory.

Heavy vegetation, rank and lush, grows along its banks. And to it go the location companies—with native porters, machetes, tame monkeys, crocodiles named Albert, quinine, snakes and limousines for their scenes in the tropics!

Get ready for possible first-trip covers on the "Queen Mary," England's giant new liner, which will make its initial run to America about May. Don't expect a new stamp, but there should be a first-trip cachet, at least.

Poland will have another new motorship, the "Batory," coming to America in March, and here again a new stamp, or at least a first-trip cachet, may be expected. (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

Veterans Will Hold Military Ball On February 20

ANNUAL EVENT DATE CHANGED BY DAV GROUP

G. A. R. CHIEF
George D. Campbell, below, has been elected commander of Sedgwick post, Grand Army of the Republic. One of the few remaining active members of the local post, he is a real veteran of the Civil War, having seen action in 18 engagements during the war. He will be 90 years old his next birthday.

The date of the Eighth Annual Military Ball, at Valencia ballroom, annually sponsored by a committee of prominent citizens for the benefit of the Jack Fisher Chapter, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, has been set for Thursday, February 20, it was announced by Harry L. Pickard, chairman of the committee in charge.

This date was agreed upon at the initial meeting of the committee held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Flagg, 1320 North Broadway. With Washington's Birthday, the accustomed time set for the Military Ball in past years, falling on Saturday the committee made this change for the convenience of its many patrons. This will avoid confliction with counter attractions of the holiday this year.

Plans for this social event will be formulated at a meeting tentatively set for February 3 and committees formed in the various districts in the county which will insure another very successful ball, Pickard said.

TELLS JUDGE MINING STOCK WON'T BUY FOOD

Because Mrs. E. M. Wilson of the DeLuxe hotel, 206 1-2 West First street could buy neither groceries nor hats nor shoes with the gold mining stock he offered in payment for a hotel bill of long standing, Rodney B. Shelley, 44, of 702 West Third street, today stood convicted of defrauding an apartment hotel keeper. He was found guilty by Justice of Peace Kenneth Morrison on two counts, after a day of testimony, released on his own recognizance and ordered to return February 1 for sentence.

All parties in the case were agreed that Shelley had resided at the hotel for 13 months but a decided difference of opinion was expressed regarding the amount of the alleged debt. Mrs. Wilson claimed Shelley owed her $340.90. Shelley claimed he not only helped around Mrs. Wilson's properties, digging weeds, cleaning house and painting, but also offered her a goodly share of stock in his Nevada gold mine.

"Yes, he offered me the stock all right," Mrs. Wilson said, "but I have debts to pay and I can't take that stock to the bank and cash it."

Mrs. Wilson declared Shelley came to Santa Ana with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scott, distant relatives, and all made themselves immediately "at home," declaring their intention of paying her a visit. It was a 13 month long visit.

"I hadn't seen them for years and Mrs. Scott really wasn't a close relative anyhow," Mrs. Wilson pointed out. "She is the niece of my second husband and I never had seen Mr. Shelley before."

Explaining she hadn't filed any complaint against the Scotts, Mrs.

TOWNSEND PLAN SUPPORTERS TO ATTEND MEET

Orange county Townsend clubs are planning to send a large delegation of members to the mass meeting of Townsendites of the 12th and 13th California Congressional districts, to be held in Pomona Saturday night, according to Walter Robb, manager of the Santa Ana office of the organization.

The meeting, which is scheduled to start at 7:30 p. m., will be held in the Women's club building, located at the corner of Third and Gary streets and is to celebrate the opening of the new Townsend State Area headquarters in that city.

Townsendites attending the mass meeting also will take that opportunity to welcome Ted E. Felt, recently appointed manager of the state area.

Wilson said she felt Shelley should pay as her financial condition would not permit her to be taken too much advantage of in a financial way. Shelley, who admitted to being a partner of Scott in the gold mining business, declared both had worked on Mrs. Wilson's properties and both had offered her a goodly share of the stock in payment of the hotel bill. But to the very last, Mrs. Wilson contended her strongest argument was: "I can't pay my debts with gold mining stock."

IN BEAUTY CONTEST

Contestants in the beauty contest to be held in conjunction with the Orange County Peace Officers' Benefit ball tomorrow night in the Valencia Ballroom, are shown below with Lee Mann. Left to right in the front row are Hazel Lee, Muriel Wetton and Lois Newbold. In the second row are Nila Bradford, Balerie Snow, Lee Mann, Phyllis Boots and Margaret Crowell, while in the top row are Dorothy Rentfro and Jane Gourley.

Entries in the contest to name "Miss Orange County," one of the feature events of the Orange County Police Officers' association benefit ball, to be held tomorrow night at Valencia ballroom, are certain to get Hollywood attention because of their beauty and the gorgeous evening gowns they will wear, according to Lee Mann, who is in charge of this event.

Mann said that judging the contest will be a difficult task as every entrant is outstandingly beautiful. Late entries in the contest will be qualified tonight by Dorothy Jarvis, Paramount film star.

The second feature event will be the dance contest with a $10 cash prize awaiting the winning couple. This contest is open to the public but entries must register at dance headquarters, 112 East Fourth street.

Professional entertainers from Los Angeles and Hollywood will present a floor show between dances. Music for dancing and the floor show will be by "Sunny" Brooks and his Hollywood orchestra.

NEGRO SINGERS WILL PERFORM HERE TUESDAY

Corsica, to behead France's condemned criminals. He is the only man who owns the guillotine, the only man in all of France who has a right to use it and collect its fees. For 35 lonely years he has executed every criminal condemned to death in France. Hundreds of men and women have lost their heads under his sharp and heavy ax. Now comes news that the old man is going to do what no French headsman has ever done before, give up his hereditary office and his role as "Monsieur de Paris," to spend his few remaining years as Anatole Diebler, private citizen of the Republic. His reason: Fear that he will, like his father before him, go mad.

As the echoes of the gruesome Hauptmann case start to die away in America, another story of doom approaches its close in France. In an obscure house in the Paris suburb of St. Cloud, behind closed shutters and barred gates, lives a grim, lonely old man, the most mysterious man in all of France. Few Frenchmen know him by sight, for he is seldom seen. Few know his true name—Anatole Joseph Francois Diebler—yet the whole nation is aware of him as "Monsieur de Paris."

A half century ago, after four unhappy years in the French army Monsieur Diebler resigned to learn the trade of his father and grandfather, to become the official executioner of France. Now March of Time, current release, No. 10, showing for the last times tonight at the West Coast theater, in the only motion pictures ever taken of "Monsieur de Paris," shows him today, feeble, stooped, with a weak heart.

School is Sponsor
The school sponsoring the group of singers was founded many years ago for the purpose of making the school better known to the world. The early groups of singers traveled by train but with the development of the automobile busses were adopted for travel and today the singing units travel in comfortable housekeeping busses.

Byrd speaks at the Fullerton High school under auspices of the Fullerton Junior Chamber of Commerce. He will give his lecture, illustrated with motion pictures taken while on his last expedition to Little America, starting at 8 p. m.

As a matter of fact Great Britain claims about two-thirds of the continent, including the site of Little America where the Byrd Expedition was encamped from January 11, 1934 to February 8, last. During his recent protracted sojourn in that region Byrd added an area of 220,000 square miles to the known map of the world, and, by a series of airplane explorations established the fact that the continent is one body of land and not two.

Expedition Mysteries

One of the mysteries of the frozen wastes is the one surrounding the British expedition organized to solve the question of whether or not there are two Antarticas. The expedition has disappeared from sight.

"As we gaze at Admiral Byrd's fascinating motion pictures and wonder at the daring of the explorer-scientists who made up a large part of the personnel of the party, we may well speculate on the possibilities of this beautiful but strange region which resists the invasion of man with blackness and blizzard," Lloyd Verry, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce said.

Byrd's geologists found evidence of coal fields sandstone and fossils within 182 miles of the South Pole. What if, on their next trip, they find gold? In which case the question "Who owns Antarctica?" may become one of international importance."

issuance of plates by special requests, I am sure they would not make them.

Time this year is at a premium for the public as plates must be obtained before midnight January 30 or a penalty of 10 per cent will be added. When the special requests are made, the other fellow often has to wait in line much longer than he should. I am asking cooperation of the public in speeding up the issuance of license plates to avoid the penalty which must follow after January 30.

Family Group Enjoys Luncheon Marking Anniversaries

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar M. Shephard held a postponed celebration of their 55th wedding anniversary yesterday afternoon in their home, 208 East Chestnut street, where they have lived since coming to Santa Ana in 1915. The party held double significance, since the occasion marked also the 75th birthday anniversary of Mr. Shephard.

Recent arrival of the hosts' son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Shephard of Tomah, Wis., for their first visit to California, gave added cause for rejoicing in the Santa Ana home.

One o'clock luncheon was served yesterday at a table centered with pink sweet peas. Many other flowers were arranged throughout rooms of the home.

Present with the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar M. Shephard, were Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Shephard of Tomah, Wis.; another son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Shephard and children, Joyce, Della, Louise and Roger, Orange; Mrs. Roy Shephard's sister, Mrs. Bessie Jerud of Pomona, and their father, J. J. Cox of Howard, S. D., who made the trip west with the Roy Shephards.

Messages and gifts were received from members of the family circle who could not be present. They included two daughters, Mrs. Minnie Hall of Le Roy, Minn., and Mrs. John Swanner of Wichita Falls, Tex., and a son, Howard Shephard of Oregon.

Orange county friends of the anniversary couple dropped in at the home during the afternoon and evening.

D. A. R. Members Attend Council Meeting In Pasadena

Three members of Santa Ana chapter Daughters of American Revolution, including the regent, Mrs. J. H. Nicholson, Mrs. John Clarkson and Mrs. Willard Goddard, together with Miss Susan M. Bowler of this city, but a member of Long Beach chapter, were among the scores of Southland Daughters who on Tuesday attended the council meeting of the Southern district D. A. R. in Hotel Green, Pasadena.

It was an all-day meeting with many business matters under consideration during the morning hours. Reciprocity was the theme of the 1 o'clock luncheon and its entertainment. Of special interest to those attending from Orange county was the musical program featuring songs by Mildred Ware Rhodes and Ellis Rhodes, formerly of Santa Ana and Anaheim, now of Los Angeles.

Chief guest speaker on the afternoon program was Katherine Locke, whose world travels fitted her especially well to talk on "Daughters of Revolutions Around the World." Miss Locke, who has visited every capital of importance and met potentates and personages of many nations, gave fascinating glimpses of such well known individuals as the late Rudyard Kipling, Stanley Baldwin, Premier Lalaval of France, Benito Mussolini, and others who figure in the headlines of the world news.

Birthday Party Comes As Surprise To Mr. Turton

John H. Turton's birthday anniversary occasioned a merry surprise party given Wednesday night when a group of friends assembled in his home, 1325 Martha Lane. The self-invited guests had kept their plans so secret that even Mrs. Turton did not know of which occurred yesterday.

Dancing in the upstairs "party" room of the home occupied the group for the greater part of the evening. Refreshments were served at a dining table where green and white tapers matched the tiny candles on a decorated birthday cake.

Present were Messrs. and Mesdames Edwin Maier, Frank Chapman, Roy Gowdy, Vern Van Beurthen, Ray Price, all of this community; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bernard, Long Beach, and Mr. and Mrs. Turton. The group met in the Price home, 811 North Olive street, continuing from there to the Turton home.

PATTERN 2652
BY ANNE ADAMS

Mary Jane's a welcome caller at playmates' homes because she always looks so fresh and dainty. Other mothers ask the secret—a very simple one, for Mary Jane's frocks are made at home, and she has a goodly supply of them since they're so inexpensive to make and launder. Any mother can make this cunning model herself, in just a morning or so, and the matching bloomers in a few additional moments. A wide center panel and all-in-one sleeves and yokes cut the actual sewing time in half. ASSEMBLYMAN SPEAKS BEFORE FORUM GROUP

FULLERTON, Jan. 24.—A problem faces the people of California, in that the cost of supporting the prisons and insane institutions the state keeps pace with the cost of supporting the state colleges, according to Assemblyman Ted Craig, speaker of the house, who addressed the forum conducted by Dr. Charles Ruby at the Fullerton Union High school auditorium Thursday night.

This and other problems of state were reviewed by the speaker, and an outline of the unemployment and old-age insurance bills was given by the speaker. He said that the special committee on building a prison for young men who are lawbreakers is working to provide a setting for the prison that will give ample opportunity for the inmates to make it a self-supporting institution.

According to the speaker a total of $17,000,000 is spent each year on the state universities and teacher's colleges and $17,000,000 on the prisons and insane asylums.

Concerning unemployment insurance legislation, Assemblyman Craig said 17 countries have such legislation, and have found that it functions except in times of depression.

Reports on the work of the Y. M. C. A. will be featured. A business session also will be held.

Those who say "The old fashioned things are good enough for us" probably mean just that, and they cannot be censured for passing up the new and better things of life if they do not know about them, but when knowledge of these good things is yours, then to hold to the "old fashioned" places one in rather a ridiculous position.

About a year ago women began to read in the women's magazines, in the home economics sections of daily papers and to hear in the cooking schools about a new, delicious and easily served soup, known as "ready-to-serve." An entirely new idea for an old product, for canned soups have been on the markets for many years, but

MIXING BOWL

One of the most terrifying things the young mother and the child have to contend with, is croup. If you have a small child clip and paste this remedy inside the bathroom medicine chest door. Better still, keep a small box of the mixture ready for emergencies.

Mix equal parts of white sugar and cream of tartar, sifting several times to mix well. Give the child about a third of a spoonful each time, directing that the sugar be held in the mouth, not swallowed. As it melts the action of the cream of tartar on the mucous plug will loosen it and relieve the child. In the meantime it is wise to get a croup kettle ready, or lacking that, boiling water with a few drops of eucalyptus oil dropped over the top. Drape a bath towel over the child's head and kettle and encourage him to breathe in the steam until the doctor arrives, if the attack is severe enough to call him.

The remedies suggested are those used in my own croupy days; I can remember how effective they were.

Luncheon Large serving of raw vegetable salad

Diet French dressing
Dinner roll, split and toasted
1/2 pat butter for roll
Tea with skimmed milk, no sugar.

Calory total... 275

Put everything green into the salad: lettuce, chicory (endive the vendors call it) celery, savoy cabbage, raw cauliflower, onion, ripe tomatoes if you have them. Mix mineral oil and vinegar for dressing, flavoring with prepared mustard, a little steak sauce, salt, pepper and pinch of sugar. Immerse a bay leaf and crushed garlic clove in dressing to flavor.

Don't laugh when I suggest raw cauliflower in salad... it's grand!

THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

GOOD GARDENING

By Mrs. H. Cardosa Sloan, Corona Del Mar
Being sound advice and interesting comment on what to plant and how to care for Orange County gardens.

FOR A GRAVELLY SOIL

If all we who are gardeners could choose the soil upon which our gardens are to be planted, we know just what it would be—deep, rich, mellow, perfectly drained, and free from stones. Sometimes we are fortunate as to be able to choose our homesites with the garden in mind, but more often we must take the soil as we find it, and make the best of it.

Orange county soil is for the most part free from any approach to stoniness, but there are certain sections where gravelly soil prevails, and much distress of mind will be saved if the gardener selects for planting therein trees and shrubs which have hardy root systems, devised for penetrating loose, stony soil and seeking for nourishment and moisture wherever these may be found.

Among the trees which come under this head there are, first of all, the grand old pines, especially the native species. Pines, more than most trees, lose their trim figures with advancing age. In youth they are fresh and green and with graceful pyramidal shape. In age many species tend to branch and flatten in the top, attaining to much picturesqueness and this should be borne in mind in their planting.

The poplars, also, will adapt themselves to a gravelly soil. They have the advantage of being quick growing and of giving a lively, sprightly effect from their bright, lightly moving leaves. They have the disadvantage of giving a rather temporary look if planted too freely, and many of them sucker profusely, a very disheartening habit. A row of Lombardy poplars some eight feet from our fence sent roots thirty feet into our garden, and when we would dig up lusty bunches of sprouts from roots as thick as one's wrist all over our rose garden, our thoughts were black against the poplars. But when we lifted our eyes to their tall, spring tops against the blue of the sky, we could feel only tenderness toward them. It was not that we loved poplar trees less, but that we loved roses more. If you plant poplars, cut down a couple feet with a sharp spade two or three times a year at a point which will prevent the roots trespassing on soil allotted to other plants.

One of the oaks, the "Cork Oak," a fine, fast-growing tall tree, will grow well in a dry, gravelly soil, as will the California sycamore with its spreading branches and mottled trunk. Among the eucalyptus trees the "Sugar Gum" is best for such soils, a splendid, tall species. While several others will do well, the "Manna Gum" as tall as the "Sugar Gum," with long, narrow leaves and chalky white trunk; the "Desert Gum," and the beautiful "Pink Flowering Ironbark," Tamarix articulata, the "Athel Tree," will grow in a gravelly soil, but is more effective in desert regions than near the coast, where it never reaches its full, plumy luxuriance.

Among the suitable shrubs are, naturally, many natives. The California juniper is impervious to almost any condition of heat, cold or drought, and a gravelly soil has no terrors for it. It is of upright growth, to about 10 feet. Many of the junipers will accommodate themselves to a dry, gravelly soil, and as the different forms, especially the lower and the prostrate types, are shrubs of great attraction, I should consider them carefully for such conditions.

"The Wild Cherry," or "Catalina Cherry," grows to a small tree. It has holly-like leaves and red cherry-like flowers. Makes a good hedge or background shrub. Our native "Coffee Berry," with its gay colored fall berries, the "Lemonade Berry," with orange berries, and the "Sugar Bush," with bright green, leathery leaves, handsome pink flowers followed by orange-red berries, make good covers for stony banks. Quite fitting that for such dry places their names are so suggestive of liquid refreshments.

There is the native Yucca, with its tall spikes of creamy bloom, and a native Barberis (Berberis Nevillii), which is a really charming shrub with silvery grey foliage, canary-yellow flowers, and dripping red berries. And that lovely cluster of native plants, the Matilija poppy, with its large and exquisite white flowers.

If the grounds to be planted are of any considerable extent it would be well to use some of these fine native plants.

For covering barren spaces there is another interesting plant, Ulex europeus, the "European furze," or "goose." This is a small, spiny shrub, much branched and spreading, bearing profusely golden-yellow pea-blossoms flowers.

crowded on the ends of the what smaller H. Suaveolens is at the "Purple Rockrose," with the same markings on a rose-purple petal. Just the thing for a dry, sunny spot, opening fresh flowers every morning all spring and summer.

Some of the Melaleucas can be used, notably M. nesophylla, a large, spreading shrub, with bright green foliage. The flowers are rosy-lavender balls, instead of the usual "bottle brushes."

A rather uncommon species of the favorite Pittosporum (phillyraeoides) is excellent for a stony soil. It grows to a small tree, 20 ft. or more, has narrow leaves and pendent branches (something like the weeping willow) and small yellow flowers in late winter and spring, which possess the charm of sweet fragrance.

The lovely Flowering Tamarisk (Tamarix parviflora) may be used, as it will thrive under almost any conditions. Its spreading, feathery branches reaching a height to 15 feet, and its mist of pink flowers one of the most delicate and lovely sights any garden affords.

In smaller shrubs there are the Rockroses (Cistus), the "Brown-eyed Rockrose," the white flowers having a maroon spot at the base of the petal, and a fuzzy little center circle of golden stamens; and the same markings on a rose-purple petal. Just the thing for a dry, sunny spot, opening fresh flowers every morning all spring and summer.

And even gravelly soil will grow that striking plant, the Giant Blue Echium. This makes a huge clump and sends up five-foot spikes of blue bloom. A rather exotic looking plant and very effective in the right place.

Two little plants, to wind up with. Rosemary, a much loved old herb, aromatic in foliage and flower; and a little, bushy, spreading shrub (8 ft.) from Italy, Teucrium fruticans, which has greyish foliage and blooms most of the year, little bright blue flowers.

This by no means exhausts the list of shrubs which may be grown. Of course, if the monarch of a gravelly soil has the stones removed, puts in loamy soil and enriches it with fertilizers, he may grow an increasing variety of plants, in proportion to the renovating he gives the soil, but the trees and shrubs we have named are blessed with questing roots which will seek out all the virtue hidden in the heart of an unfriendly, gravelly soil.

SINCE bananas were first introduced into the United States more than a hundred years ago, scientists have been seeking a method for artificially ripening the fruit to bring out the true tree-ripened color, flavor, and texture. Only recently, with the perfection of air-conditioning and thermostatic control, has it been possible to produce scientifically matured perfect fruit.

In our Los Angeles warehouse, we have just completed the installation of the most modern equipment in operation on the Pacific Coast for handling the tropical fruit. Into each of the banana rooms in the new plant can be introduced moist or dry air, at the exact temperature required to duplicate tropical days and nights. This equipment, under expert control, provides our stores with the finest bananas you can buy — large, golden-ripe, smooth textured, delicious fruit. Scheduled delivery brings them to our store in your community, where you can buy them at no higher price than you would be asked to pay for ordinary fruit elsewhere.

For this week's sale, we have ripened to perfection eleven whole carloads of bananas. Buy a supply at one of our stores this week. Discover for yourself the big difference in bananas.
